W3 JOURNAL

MONDAY, September 16, 2024

- Today was a refreshing Monday,
- We both wrote our codes but I was having a problem running it on vscode.
- The code was working well on dev C++
- Yesterday I mailed my professor asking if we can use any compiler and he approved. It was a relief.
- My partner Iddi and I decided to do our code based on cars, as we got to know we both have a keen interest in cars.
- We did a Google Meet call and discussed our projects.

TUESDAY, September 17, 2024

- Today I had a lot of assignments in other subjects
- I decided to complete all my assignments today so that I can be free on Wednesday as we have our presentation on Thursday.
- I did not call my partner Iddy today as we texted on Snapchat that we would be doing our other subjects today

WEDNESDAY, September 18, 2024

- Today we had classes till 12 pm after our classes we decided to sit and work on our project.
- We created our presentation and mutually divided our work
- Our code is more like a car game
- Nikunj who is my classmate was struggling with his project, I and Iddi helped him and made him understand what our project was.
- We rehearsed our presentation and tested our code

W3 JOURNAL

- The code was working perfectly but I was fumbling in my presentation as it was my first time
- After completing my other assignments and quizzes we decided to do a final call at 9 pm so that we could confirm our work
- We worked on our project till late at night and submitted our assignments, scripts, and presentation
- I hope we have a successful presentation tomorrow
- Iddi and I are a bit nervous